What have we been up to this week?

Preschool were inspired by spotting some toy hedgehogs in our maths area this week. After lots of chatting about their spines and how they hibernate, we decided to make some hedgehogs using brown playdough and tiny sticks - they were very creative! We have also enjoyed sharing the story of 'Owl Babies' together this week, talking about the different characters, Sarah, Percy and Bill as well as thinking about the number 3. In the sand we have been comparing heavy and light things as well as creating some super cube shapes in our construction area. There has also been some lovely careful, cutting out using scissors and lots of lovely drawings.

Welly Wednesday

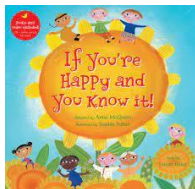

We had great fun on Wednesday using our mud kitchen to stir, mix, create and imagine... we pretended to make soup, cups of tea, some hot chocolate and some biscuits - all from mud, leaves, sticks, acorns and some water!

Super Sounds

We have been busy finding out about things that begin with the same sounds... buttery bagels...big, building bricks and smooth, soft sand. I wonder what you can spot at home together?

Songs and Rhymes

We have been thinking about things that make us happy this week and have chatted about what makes us feel sunny on the inside. Preschool have thoroughly enjoyed singing 'If you are happy and you know it'; there is a lovely version on the barefoot books website.

Wow Moments

Preschool have had a super half term learning, playing, discovering and exploring together and are ready for a very well deserved half term rest! Well done Little Chestnuts; I am very proud of you.
