

Little Chestnuts Preschool

Weekly News

March 24th 2023

What have we been up to this week?

Preschool were so interested in stories written by the author Julia Donaldson that we decided to read 'Superworm' together this week. There has been lots of lovely chatting about the different insects and bugs we could spot in the illustrations. It was very exciting to find and compare lots of different, pretend minibeasts hiding in the sand and even the compost! There has been lots of fun choosing and wrapping flowers in our role play area and on Wednesday we were delighted to meet Kelvin from the police who explained about his job role and even let us try on lots of different hats. We also enjoyed sharing the story 'Red Lorry, Yellow Lorry'; a lovely singing version from the BookTrust can be found on YouTube that you might enjoy sharing together at home.

Out and About

We have enjoyed discovering more seasonal changes this week; spotting blossom and catkins as well as noticing how much our runner bean shoots are changing. After Easter we will be joining Willow Class in a weekly Friday Forest School session... more details will follow next week.

Super Sounds

We have been thinking carefully about the beginning sound of things in our play and at snack time this week. We have focused on the initial sound 'o' and had great fun moving and balancing beanbags 'on' and 'off' different parts of our body in the hall.

Songs and Rhymes

On Thursday Little Chestnuts were delighted to discover some plastic frogs hiding in some slippery, wet, green jelly! It inspired us to share the song '5 Little Speckled Frogs' together, with lots of lovely chatting about 'taking away'.

Wow Moments

Well done Alfie for your super name writing this week; you formed your letters beautifully.

Happy Birthday

Happy 4th Birthday Sienna!
